

ROSE PASTOR NOW BRIDE OF MILLIONAIRE

Ghetto Girl Wedded to J. G. Phelps Stokes with Simple Ceremony.

200 GUESTS PRESENT.

Special Train Took Them from New York to Noroton to Witness Marriage.

RODE IN THE SAME CARRIAGE.

Bridegroom Accompanied Bride from the Stokes Cottage to St. Luke's Church—Brother Officiated.

(Special to The Evening World.)

NOROTON, Conn., July 18.—James Graham Phelps Stokes, millionaire philanthropist, and Rose Pastor, the little girl who was married to him in the settlement house, were married here at high noon to-day at St. Luke's Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, Jr., secretary of Yale University and brother of the bridegroom, assisted by Rev. Dr. French, rector of the church.

The ceremony was quiet and simple. About 200 guests from New York came up on a special train for the wedding. Most of them were settlement workers from the east side or persons interested in philanthropic enterprises. They were gathered at the church when Mr. Stokes and Miss Pastor arrived from the Stokes cottage in the same carriage. The bride wore a gown of white crepe over a silk petticoat. Her veil was decorated with orange blossoms. The gift of the bridegroom, a pearl necklace with a pendant formed of a large pear-shaped diamond, was around her throat. She was attended by Mr. Raub, of Indianapolis, while Kellie Burnard, of the University Settlement in New York, acted as best man.

The ushers were I. N. Phelps Stokes and Harold Phelps Stokes, brothers of the bridegroom, and Robert Hunter and John Saerman Hoyt his brothers-in-law. The bride couple marched down the aisle to the altar to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march. Two rings were used in the marriage ceremony.

Family Well Represented.

The Stokes family was almost fully represented at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, the parents of the bridegroom, his brother Harold, his sister, Mrs. Robert Hunter, and her husband were the first to congratulate the young bride after the ceremony. Mrs. Pastor and her young children, who have been guests of the Stokes here since last week, remained after young Mr. Stokes and his bride started on their wedding journey.

They will sail for Europe to-morrow on the White Star liner Cedric for a tour of the Alps and the Continent. Upon their return journey they will visit the Whitechapel Settlement in London, where Rose Pastor spent her childhood. It is quite probable that in celebration of their marriage Mr. Stokes will establish some sort of a memorial fund in the neighborhood of Petticoat Lane, as close as possible to the house in which his wife grew up.

Bride's "Discoveries" There.

Henry Liebman, of the Jewish Daily News of New York, who first detected the literary talent of Rose Pastor in the letters and contributions of poetry sent to his paper from the cigar factory in which she worked in Cleveland, was one of the guests at the wedding. Had it not been for the interest Mr. Liebman took in the talented Jewess who might never have come to New York and never have met the young millionaire, whose name she took to-day and whose fortune she will share.

There were many wedding presents from circles of society widely at variance, but all were in good taste and prompted solely by regard for Mr. Stokes and the young woman who won his love. J. I. Levin, literary editor of the Jewish Daily News, in a stanch friend of Rose Pastor in the days when she took up her struggle with poverty in New York, sent a cabinet made of wood from the Mount of Zion, a Mr. Stokes's associate in his settlement work there, presented Prof. James Hamilton, Kellogg Durand and Rev. Mr. Michelson.

Will Live on East Side.

Mr. Stokes said before starting on his wedding journey that upon his return to New York with his wife they will occupy a flat which they have leased at Grand and Norfolk streets. They will continue the work that drew them together—the task of ameliorating so far as is possible the condition of the east side poor.

Rose Pastor was born in Augustov, Russia, twenty-six years ago. When she was three her parents moved to London, where she received what education the schools in the Whitechapel District afforded. At the age of eleven she came to this country with her parents and went to work in a cigar factory in Cleveland.

Although she is the mind of a poet and is a dreamer, she undertakes her character a realist. She is a mother and an intense worker. As she worked she studied. The kind of expression that was born in her was cultivated by her voluntary offerings she made to various newspapers. In May 1904 her first story was published in the Jewish Daily News. She had gained a splendid knowledge of English and could write as well in one language as the other.

Love at First Sight.

Both have since admitted that they loved at first sight. Mr. Stokes, who is not beautiful, has a face that indicates soul, and her eyes are magnificent. Mr. Stokes is tall, with strong features and a genial manner.

When first they saw him, said Miss Pastor, after the wedding, I thought I saw some resemblance in his face to the great Abraham Lincoln. In his eyes I saw a soulful look that seemed to express sympathy for all mankind.

James Graham Phelps Stokes is worth $5,000,000 in his own right, and although he devotes most of his time to work among the poor and lived for years in the University Settlement House, he is as shrewd a business man as his family has produced.

He can accomplish more in an hour than any man I ever saw," said one of his friends in describing his capacity for business tasks.

He is a graduate of the class of '92 and a member of the Knickerbocker, University, City, Yale, St. Anthony and Nineteenth Century clubs. His business interests are extensive and he watches them in every detail.

MISS MYRA KELLY SAID TO BE WON

Talented Young Writer of Stories of East-Side Child Life Is Reported Engaged to Allan MacNaughton.

Cupid is reported to have captured Miss Myra Kelly, whose delightful stories of east side children, after others had tried to write of them, came as a grateful rain on a dusty road. The talented girl who has held the east side child up to view just as he is and given to the magazines character sketches that show a part of the literature of New York, it is said, will become the bride of Allan MacNaughton, President of the Standard Coach Horse Company.

Mr. MacNaughton came into prominence at the time of the wrecking of the Tradesmen's National Bank. His brother James was President of the institution and both were indicted and the indictments later dismissed.

Mr. MacNaughton is wealthy. Miss Kelly was born in Ireland and came to this country with her father, Dr. James E. Kelly, the well-known surgeon. There is said to be some objection among relatives to the proposed marriage.

OLD PAVILION HOTEL AT NEW BRIGHTON BURNED.

Five Negro Families Have Narrow Escape—Blaze May Have Been Incendiary.

The old Pavilion Hotel at Richmond Terrace, New Brighton, which has been used as a negro barracks for some time, was destroyed by fire to-day. An investigation is being made as to the cause of the blaze. Five families of negroes were driven from their homes by the fire, which spread so rapidly that they could save nothing.

The flames started in a deserted wing of the building on the fourth floor. Two weeks ago a fire was discovered in the basement that had its start from a quantity of oil-soaked waste.

The building is owned by Elias Rosenberg, a shirt-waist manufacturer, of this city, who purchased it when the city was contemplating the use of the site for the new Borough Hall.

It was decided to build the Borough Hall in St. George, however, Mr. Rosenberg found that he had a wider element on his hands, for the structure was of no use as a hotel. He then let out portions of the building to negroes.

SENATOR CLARK IS STEADILY IMPROVING.

Oppressive Heat Fails to Check Rallying Condition of Millionaire Who Underwent Operation.

Senator William A. Clark is steadily improving. His temperature to-day was close to normal. Dr. James F. McKim, of No. 82 West Fifty-second street, said to-day that his distinguished patient was on the way to a speedy recovery.

"He spent a very comfortable night," said the physician, "in spite of the oppressive heat and he is better than we had even hoped."

The operation on Senator Clark was performed last Saturday.

When you take a cotton collar, you help to pay for the dealer's showcases and signs which the cotton collar maker is able to give away with your money. Making and filling of a collar does not protect it from the laundry. If the outside covering of your collar is cotton (it surely is, if it is not stamped "Cotton") the fault is yours for paying 15c. for it when you know that a Mr. Stokes's associate in his settlement work there, presented Prof. James Hamilton, Kellogg Durand and Rev. Mr. Michelson.

THEY KNOW HE'S DEAD, THAT'S ALL

Delayed Inquest on "Eat-Em-Up-Jack's" Death Develops Remarkable Lack of Knowledge on Everybody's Part.

The long-delayed inquest on the case leading to the death of "Eat-Em-Up-Jack" McManis, the Bowery bouncer who was murdered on May 25, was held by Coroner Goldenkrans to-day, and, after listening to testimony by various witnesses whom the police produced but who claimed to know nothing of the matter, the Coroner's jury returned a verdict of death at the hands of persons unknown.

This was done after an effort by the police to fasten the crime on John Bruno, alias "Little Chick," but witness after witness denied all knowledge of any circumstances surrounding the murder or the causes leading up to it.

Among the witnesses were John ("Young") Griffin, Frank Tricker, with two bullet holes in his body, and Jim Kelley, who was reported stabbed in a fracas earlier in the evening of the night when "Eat-Em-Up-Jack" was found at the Bowery and Broome street with his skull battered in.

The denied section of lead pipe with which the murderous attack was made was the only evidence introduced. Assistant District Attorney Turnbull examined briefly.
